

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 25, 1882.

THE REGRET for the death of the late Mr. Cowardin, of the Richmond Dispatch, is wide spread, and finds expression not only in the unanimous press of Virginia, but in many of the leading newspapers throughout the entire country, and all the eulogiums that have been written upon him do not contain a word of unmerited praise.

THE HIGH tariff men continue to reiterate the ridiculous assertion that a high tariff protects American from foreign cheap labor. They certainly cannot want the tariff any higher than it is, and yet the employer of the most protected manufacturers in the country are striking every day; and it doesn't stand to reason that men receiving fair wages would quit work and leave themselves and families penniless at the commencement of what promises to be a long and severe winter. The last thing that is protected by a high tariff is labor, but the laboring man is the first to receive the benefits of a low tariff. The price of labor rapidly advanced in England under a low tariff, until it is twice as high as it was under the protective system, and is now higher than it is in any other foreign country in which the protective system exists. Manufacturing can be conducted in this country more prosperously than in any other on the face of the earth. The sole remaining requisite is an unobstructed market, and this it can readily obtain by so reducing the tariff that foreign orders can be paid for in the products of other countries. By this simple means the markets of the world will be thrown open to American goods, the orders for which would be so augmented that the demand for labor would not only absorb all the supply, but necessarily increase its price.

THAT THE final wiping out from the map of "Turkey in Europe," if not the total dismemberment of the Ottoman empire, is a mere matter of time, is conceded by every one posted in European politics. The great powers, armed to the teeth, watch patiently for the time when the Grand Turk, seraglio, and all the retinue of oriental dissipation, luxury and indolence, will be forced across the Bosphorus, and they be accorded their respective slices of the "sick man's" territory. In 1881, when France invaded and took possession of Tunis, it was thought that the royal free-booters were then about to accomplish that oft-predicted purpose; but the end was not then. During this year, Turkey has had Egypt virtually wrested from her, she has been compelled to cede more territory to her offspring—Greece, who of course, will never be satisfied until she gets numerous other important and commercial marts which lie contiguous; and now the little insignificant Montenegro, a mere spaniel among the nations of the earth, of course, actuated by Russia, has, with the greatest assurance, demanded the immediate cession to her of the district of Kolatchiu. Of course, the powers, which always decide unfavorably to the Porte, will urge a compliance with the demand, and for aught we know a terrible scramble will follow as this "house of cards," as some one terms the present Turkish empire, begins to fall. There is a theological conceit, very ancient, that the final overthrow of the Moslem empire is predicted in the Book of Revelations. In the sixteenth chapter of that mysterious symbolical scroll an angel is represented as pouring out his vial "upon the great river Euphrates, and the water thereof being dried up." In scriptural imagery, such expositors say, people, multitudes and nations are represented as waters, and the river Euphrates having its course directly through "Turkey in Asia," is looked upon by them as significant, and the present aspect of Turkish affairs as affording a belief that the fullness of the predicted time has come.

THE CLAIMS of the soldiers and sailors for pension justly due them for services in the Mexican war will be pressed upon the attention of Congress at the coming session. When the vast resources of the country, with $200,000,000 surplus in its treasury, and the rich and almost invaluable possessions acquired by the Mexican war are considered, the wonder is that Congress has not long since passed the act pensioning those engaged in that war. Pensions have been allowed for services in all the other wars of the country. Why should the people's money be withheld and pensions delayed to those who were instrumental in securing to the United States the important possessions and result of the contest with Mexico? How can the immense surplus in the treasury be disbursed more wisely, patriotically and justly to the people of the whole country than by passing acts which will ensure the distribution and circulation among the citizens of the money due for services of soldiers and sailors of all the Mexican wars, including the important one with Mexico.

WOMEN AT THE TELEPHONE.—The objection found by ladies to the telephone that they could talk only one at a time, has been remedied by a new, duplex reciprocal sort of invention, and now, two ladies, one at either end of the wire, can both talk to each other at the same time as comfortably as they could if both were together in front of a dry goods counter.

COURT OF APPEALS YESTERDAY.—Donagheue and als. vs. Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company. Application to rehear denied.

Royal against Auditor of Public Accounts. Application for mandamus; rule nisi denied. Raine and als. vs. Russell, auditor, of the city of Petersburg. Argued.

FROM WASHINGTON

(Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25, 1882.—The Garfield Memorial Fair is the chief attraction here to-day, but it doesn't seem to be particularly so to the people here, and whether the exhibits are really attractive or not is a matter of some doubt. The most valuable among them are those lent to the fair by Mr. Corcoran, the foreign embassies and the White House officials, some of which are really beautiful, especially the vases belonging to the Chinese embassy. The District of Columbia Department, which owing to want of room, had to be located in the crypt of the Capitol, is thought by many to be the best part of the show. The exhibition was formally opened at two o'clock this afternoon by the President. At that hour, after music by the Marine band stationed at the east front of the rotunda, the Cabinet, Diplomatic Corps, Supreme Court, the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House, Governor Foster of Ohio, and Cameron of Virginia, and other prominent people arranged themselves around the President, who stood upon a dais at the east door, and who, after prayer by Rev. Mr. Powers, chaplain of the House, in a few words formally declared the fair open to the public. The President was introduced to the crowd by Mr. John W. Thompson. It was intended that Justice Stanley Matthews, of the Supreme Court, would deliver an oration, but as the chamber of neither the Senate nor House could be obtained for that purpose, that part of the programme was abandoned, as the noise there precluded any thing of the sort. Quite a large crowd was present, apparently five times as large as it really was in consequence of the limited space devoted to the exhibition and the large portion of that limited space occupied by the exhibits. One or two of the articles sent there for exhibition have already been stolen, and the Capitol police thinking that they were not properly treated in the remarks about the insufficiency of the guards, declined to have anything more to do with the fair. Forty special policemen and a detail of fifty of the Metropolitan police were therefore put on duty to-day. Among the special policemen a Virginian nor democrat who applied was allowed a place. It was only noticed yesterday that no painting or bust of Washington was among the exhibits, and though search was made to-day for the Jefferson statue, it could not be found. In the centre of the rotunda is an heroic sized bust of Garfield, by Mrs. Hoxie, (Miss Minnie Ream that used to be,) who was engaged, just before the opening services, in roughening his whiskers. General Tombs, who has rooms at the Metropolitan Hotel, is here to attend to an important suit in the U. S. Supreme Court. The General stays in his private room most of the time but has many callers. The hotel-keepers say that few people here come to town so far to attend the fair, but that they expect large arrivals next week, as the lowered railroad rates then commence.

Governor Foster, of Ohio, and a party of capitalists interested in the Ohio Central Railroad, are here to-day on their way to inspect Newport News, which is to be one of the eastern termini of that road.

Rev. Dr. Bullock, Chaplain of the Senate, who has been to Kentucky to see his son who has been extremely ill, has returned, his son's health having improved.

One from the Mexican silver mine, in which Postmaster Windsor of Alexandria is interested, has been assayed and found to be worth $553 a ton. General Mahone is not interested in this mine as has been reported, but one sixth of the stock is reserved for him in case the mine prove as valuable as it is said to be, and this will be determined by Mr. Windsor who will go to Mexico in January accompanied by an experienced miner, geologist and surveyor.

A rumor is afloat here to-day to the effect that the Marshal Henry of the District of Columbia will be removed, and that the removal will be the consequence of some of his bad hangings of the Star route case.

Mr. W. C. Cave, Superintendent of the public schools of Alexandria County, was here to-day and made arrangements with the managers of the Garfield fair for admitting the pupils of those schools to the fair next Friday on the same terms as those on which the children of the schools of this city are admitted—10 cents apiece.

A naval officer who was at the hop in Alexandria last night says he saw more pretty, bright, and graceful young ladies there at one time than he had ever seen before in all his travels.

One of the reasons for the gathering of the prominent Mahoneites here during the early part of the week was the organization of the Florida Ship Canal, of which General Mahone, Governor Cameron and General Grover were elected directors.

General Baum, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, says the telegraphic dispatch sent off from here last night about the recommendations to be made in his annual report is entirely incorrect, and that the recommendations he will make have not yet been determined upon.

THE C. & O. R. R. IN THE POOL.—The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad has been given the same position in the differential rate assignment as is accorded the largest of the trunk lines in East and West passenger business. The road, it is stated, has been a thorn in the side of the Baltimore and Ohio by its sale of cheap tickets, especially at Staunton and Charlottesville, and the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio felt its effects at Washington and other points. Some unlimited Chesapeake and Ohio tickets bought from scrapers were laid before the meeting of trunk line passenger agents at New York this week as specimens of the low rates complained of. The roads were understood to be preparing for heroic measures to remedy the evil, and the intention of connecting lines to withdraw Chesapeake and Ohio tickets from sale was more than hinted. The acceptance of the position assigned in the differential rate agreement will settle the trouble. The arrangement will take effect December 1.—Baltimore Sun.

The King of Denmark is truly a paternal monarch. Finding that during the recent severe weather the royal guards were suffering greatly from colds and coughs, this good old gentleman ordered a supply of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for them and now the sentries are happy.

The new Russian customs tax of fifteen kopeks per pound on imported pig iron is equivalent to about $9.30 per ton, less the depreciation in Russian currency. If Russia could manufacture all she needs, the cost of iron to the American classes would be enhanced to the amount at least of this tax. As it is, Russian labor is forced to buy much of its tools and machinery in foreign countries, and pay the still higher tax which is levied upon manufactured iron and steel.

A great storm prevailed on the lakes during the past forty-eight hours, and it is feared that a number of vessels were wrecked on Lake Huron and in Saginaw bay. A floating elevator at Buffalo was blown over. The new machine shops of the Lackawanna Railroad, at East Buffalo, were blown down by the storm.

It is believed that the propriety of removing Mr. Helm, of the Government Printing Office, is under consideration, in consequence of his having aided the star routers by means of the Washington Evening Critic, of which he is the general manager. It is reported that he has resigned the latter position.

The steamer Rotary, belonging to the Roanoke, Norfolk and Baltimore Steamboat Company, was burned on Wednesday night at Astoria Landing, about twenty miles above the mouth of the Roanoke river. The Rotary was loading, and had on board besides other freight about 250 bales of cotton. The fire originated in the freight-room, and was beyond control when it was discovered.

At the coroner's inquiry into the death of Mrs. Regar and Son, who were poisoned lately in Buffalo, N. Y., by eating potato pancakes, Rosanna Baunier said that Mrs. Regar was dissatisfied because her husband went into the saloon and grocery business. Other witnesses testified that on the night of the funeral of the white Regar went into the bar-room and set up beer and liquor for the mourners, and a number of neighbors, the occasion being one of festivity. Regar was heard to say: "Well, I'm glad this is all over with. I never felt so good in my life."

Last week Texan officers took in custody and placed in jail at El Paso one D. Edwin Cowan, of Virginia, who is charged with having in September last disappeared suddenly with $1,040 entrusted to him by J. W. Cox, general ticket agent and acting paymaster of the Shenandoah railroad, to pay of certain employees of that road. Gov. Cameron has granted a requisition for the surrender of the criminal for trial in Virginia and officers have gone to bring him back.

The Coupon-Killer Case.

We learn from the Richmond Whig of to-day that a motion made before the Court of Appeals to certify the decision of that court in the coupon-killer case was refused by a majority of the court—Judges Staples, Burks, and Lewis concurring that it ought not to be granted. The Whig says: And thus the decision of Thursday November 23, under the rule of the court itself, amounts to nothing in behalf of the 10-40 coupons, for within the ten days allowed the Attorney-General to apply for a rehearing if he shall so choose, the 1st of December will arrive and find "Coupon-Killer No. 2" in full effect! Yesterday Auditor Allen received many telegrams from City Treasurers and other collectors of State taxes, informing him that they were overwhelmed with demands that they should receive the 10-40, or Brokers' Bill, coupons under the decision of Thursday, and asking him what they should do. The Auditor very properly reserved his answers until the ruling of the court upon the above motion was known, when he at once instructed all Treasurers, and other collectors of State taxes who had telegraphed to him, that they should not receive the coupons in question in payment of any demand of the State.

The Dispatch says: Assistant-Treasurer Tinsley yesterday received the following: Richmond, November 24. To S. C. Greenhow, Treasurer, Richmond, Va.: Application for a rehearing in the 10-40 coupon case, and ten days given the Commonwealth for the purpose. You will therefore not receive these coupons in payment of taxes.

S. BROWN ALLEN, Auditor Public Accounts. Under the above order S. G. Tinsley, Assistant Treasurer, will not receive coupons in payment of taxes.

COMMUNICATED. The "hop" last night at McBurney's Hall was a perfect success, and reflects great credit upon the managers, Messrs. Morgan Beach and J. W. Wheat. The sky was cloudless and the moon shone beautifully, while the air was fresh and sparkling. In the language of a young naval officer present, "The elements were with you, and the young ladies' attendance were graceful, beautiful and accomplished." Many of them wore very handsome dresses, the sparkling diamonds and other valuable jewelry reminding one of Tompkins's North-Farmer's advice to his son, "My son, don't marry for money, but before you marry go to the country where the rich girls live."

Among the visiting guests present, we noticed Miss Houck, of Baltimore, Miss Ganne, of Florida, Misses Wilson, Ernest and Ford, of Washington, Miss Matpin, of Portsmouth, Va., Miss Megenth, Omaha, Miss Adams, Middleburg, Va., Miss Green, Cincinnati, O., Miss Brant, New York, Miss Campbell, Lexington, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Georgetown, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Louisville, Ky., and many others. Our Alexandria girls were out, and looked as handsome as usual. We will not attempt a personal mention, being unequal to the occasion.

The sexton will be up late on Saturday night and early on Sunday morning in order to have the house of worship comfortable. Your pew will be swept and dusted, ready for you; will you occupy it? It may be the last Lord's day you may spend on earth. Where will you spend it? How will you spend it? Your presence or absence to-morrow, will influence some soul or souls in their church attendance or their neglect of this duty. No man—no woman—liveth to himself—men, Sunday is a day when Christians are watched. You will be watched to-morrow and your presence or absence, as a church member, will be noticed. Begin to-night to arrange your domestic affairs so that you may have them off of your mind, your hands, and be free to honor God by your presence in the Assembly of His Saints, to-morrow. ANOTHER MURDER.—Last Thursday, a colored girl aged about 12 years, named Mattie Jones, living near McCauley's Shop, in Spotsylvania county, was shot and killed. Her brother who was with her at the time of the shooting, says that he and his sister, who had been sent after the gun, which had been left at a shop to be repaired, were coming along the road, when they were met by a colored boy, who asked him to loan him the gun, on receiving it fired at the girl, killing her instantly. The neighbors think that the brother and sister got to playing with the gun, when it was accidentally discharged. Jonas, the girl's brother, was arrested and after a hearing sent to jail.

Deputy City Marshal Frey, of Baltimore, returned from Albany, N. Y., yesterday, having in charge Henry Cleary, who had just completed a term of imprisonment in the penitentiary at that place. Cleary is under indictment in Baltimore for having, with George Bell and Alfred Wilson, defrauded the Merchants' National Bank of several thousand dollars by forged checks about two years ago. He made his escape at the time. Wilson and Bell are now serving out terms in the Maryland penitentiary, the former for four and the latter for ten years. Cleary will now be put upon trial.
